

For over one hundred years, Hall's Toys has been more than a business. It was a place where dreams were built, families were supported, and generations of children found joy in carefully crafted toys. Founded in 1921 and passed down through three generations, the company stands as a symbol of loyalty, innovation, and heart. But when the aging owner is forced to sell, everything changes.